ESTATE CAMERA COLLECTION

I have been entrusted with over 1,000 (yes, that's one thousand) cameras plus projectors, flash bulbs, magic lanterns and more – before you ask, there are no Leica's as far as I know. These items range from the sublime (a reconnaissance camera from a Lancaster bomber) to the ridiculous (a hot pink Barbie Polaroid) and getting them photographed and listed on either eBay or in my Etsy shop (http://www.etsy.com/shop/rgwriter?section\_id=7253390) is going to take a while. The gentleman who assembled this collection chose pieces in good shape and gently cleaned them with compressed air and a soft cloth. Many might benefit from your detailed attention but I've left them as is rather than risk damaging them in any way. These lovely things are truly works of art and to feel a 70+-year-old shutter click over solidly is, to me, technically amazing. I feel extremely privileged to have the opportunity to see and handle each and every one of them. While in most cases I will not be running film through them due to the sheer volume of cameras, I will check to see that the shutter fires, parts move if they are supposed to, and things appear to be as they should.

How does it work if you want to buy something? Let me know what item(s) interest you -- please include the box number with the item if you can. I will pull the items, examine them, and send you detailed information as well as photographs, along with a price. If you agree to the price, we will set up payment for the item plus shipping through Paypal. Once I receive your payment, I will ship you the item. If, when you get the item, you find a problem that wasn't shown on the photographs or mentioned in the description, you can send it back for a refund of the purchase price. This way, your risk is only the shipping cost and the risk should be minimal as I will send lots of photos and try to be as complete and honest as possible in the description of the object. If you have any questions, I encourage you to ask them.

I will deal with your requests in the order I have received them and the first person to ask about an object will get the first chance at it. Then I'll go down the list. If everyone declines to purchase, I will list the object on eBay. I would prefer to deal privately, of course, partly because of the fees and partly because the gentleman who put this camera collection together liked to deal one on one, rather than online. So do I. Enjoy!

Estate Camera Collection:
Correct as of September 7, 2011

Seventy-five (75) boxes with inventory as shown below plus several larger items also listed. Items currently listed in my Etsy shop have a link with them. Descriptions here are brief or non-existent as the goal was to simply get a list of what we had. More complete identification and condition information will be available as the items are photographed for listing. If something says “-ish” e.g. boxed-ish, it means the item is there but in poor condition.
